

To the members of the SPE-Benelux Section

From Fred Tassie (President)

Annual meeting 2007 is coming up, make a difference and get involved.

The above is a general description, from my perspective, of what a person might expect from and provide for the section.

The section has a board and each board member has his responsibility and is an elected position.

Each position has a critical role for the section.

The current board is undertaking the task of more exactly defining the roles for each of its members and has a writing paper for each position in the board.

The first reason for this is that individuals elected to the board to these position need to understand their specific roles.

Thus, my message, after above description, is that you need to become involved in the section.

We have a remarkable society that embodies the best forum for polymer materials for a tremendously diversity of applications.

Your involvement in the section can come in many ways.

The first and foremost is to vote in the upcoming annual meeting.

You will receive mailings to get more information about this annual meeting.

Secondly, get involved in a section committee or activity.

Section committees are not established yet, your involvement on these committees would also have a direct and powerful effect on the section.

Activities are critical for the section to keep it alive for the members and maintain its standard.

Saying that you, as an individual, can really make a difference is actually true in the case of our SPE – Benelux section.

I look forward to meet you in the upcoming annual meeting and/or hearing from you how you would like to become more involved with the SPE-Benelux section.
